

BOY'S CORDUROY 'PANTS' SQUEAKED IN SCHOOL

Teacher Called Him "Little Music Box" and Was Transferred When Parent Complained.

BROCKTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—"Our Little Music Box" was the nickname given by Miss Clara J. Wetherell, principal of the Hancock School here, to a boy named Burrill, who wore squeaky corduroy breeches. So witnesses said here at the hearing before the School Board on charges brought against the principal by the boy's parents. Percy V. Burrill testified that he sent his son to school clad in corduroy. "The little fellow came home," he said, "and told me Miss Wetherell said his pants squeaked. He said she remarked to the other pupils. 'Ah, here comes our little music box.' The boy felt very badly over it and refused to wear them again. I noticed this time he came home and said Miss Wetherell had said, 'You go to Miss Smith's room and play a tune for her.'"

The School Board ordered the transfer of Miss Wetherell to another school, though it exonerated her from the charges brought by the Burrills.
